Section One

INTRODUCTION

1.0 The National Sample Survey Organisation (NSSO) had conducted a survey on social consumption in the 42nd round during the period from July 1986 to June 1987 in order to assess the benefits derived by various sections of society from public expenditure incurred by the government with a view to providing necessary care for education, health, maternity, family planning, etc. The first report ^{1/} of this survey on the availability of drinking water, electricity and disinfections of dwelling etc. had already been released. The present report provides an idea about the extent of utilisation of public distribution system (p.d.s) by the population at large both in rural and urban sectors of 18 major states and all-India.

1.1 Survey period and Reference period : The field work of 42nd round survey was carried out during the period from July 1986 to June 1987. The data collected on the utilisation of public distribution system pertained to a moving reference period of last 30 days preceding the day of enquiry.

1/ NSS Draft Report No. 361 : A profile of households and population by economic class and social group and availability of drinking water, electricity and disinfection of dwellings; 42nd Round (July 1986 - June 1987).

1.2 Coverage : The geographical coverage of the survey was extended ~~to~~ over the whole of rural and urban areas of Indian union excepting Ladakh and Kargil districts of Jammu and Kashmir and rural areas of Nagaland.

1.3 Sample Size : The survey data collected through schedule 25.1 of 42nd round covered about 73, 564 households spread over 8400 villages and 4465 blocks. The present report provides the results of some selected major states. The results of the states which have not been presented separately in this report are, however, included in the all India estimate.

1.4 Participation of states : In the 42nd round survey all the states and union territories (included in the geographical coverage) except Andaman and Nicobar Islands, Chandigarh, Dadra and Nagar Haveli and Lakshadweep participated in the survey on at least equal matching basis. The results presented in this report are, however, based on the data of central samples only.

1.5 Contents of the report : The report contains tables separately for rural and urban sectors in respect of selected states as also for all India. In addition to these tables, the other sections of the report contain (i) Concepts and Definitions (ii) Sample Design and Estimation procedure and (iii) Summary of Findings.

Section Two

CONCEPTS AND DEFINITIONS

2.0 Some of the concepts and definitions followed during 42nd round survey on social consumption are explained below.

2.1 Household : A household is a group of persons normally living together and taking food from a common kitchen. A boarding house or a hotel or a hostel is treated as a cluster of households where each individual boarder (with his dependent or guests) forms a separate household by itself. Households maintained and provided food directly by government, such as those in prisons, police quarters, cantonments, hospitals, asylums, relief camps are, however, excluded from the scope of the survey.

2.2 Household size : The total number of members in a household is considered to be the household size.

2.3 Public distribution system (p.d.s) :- By public distribution system is meant ration shops, fair price shops and control shops which get their supplies from government or government undertakings- may be through intermediaries. However, these shops may be owned by the government, local self-government, government undertaking, employer of a firm, co-operative or private persons individually, jointly or other bodies like club, trust etc. Super bazars and cooperative stores will not be generally included under public distribution system. However, when they sell rationed commodities also at controlled prices against ration cards, they will be taken as ration shops for the particular commodities. In order to study the extent of availability and utilisation of public distribution system data were collected for purchase in respect of food and non-food items viz : rice, wheat, bazra, jowar, other cereals, pulse, edible oil and vanaspati, sugar coal, kerosene and standard cloth. Purchase made for household consumption during 30 days preceding the date of survey was considered except for standard cloth for which reference period was last 365 days preceding the date of survey. The items mentioned above might have been purchased by the household during the reference period wholly from public distribution system or wholly from other sources or partly from public distribution system and partly from other sources or the households might not have purchased the items during the reference period. When a household, during ^{the} reference period, did not purchase a particular commodity from the public distribution system or purchased it partly from the public distribution system and partly from other sources, the reason for not purchasing or purchasing partly from the public distribution system was also enquired and data were collected in this regard.

SECTION THREE

SAMPLE DESIGN AND ESTIMATION PROCEDURE

3.0 Sampling design : The sampling design adopted in the 42nd round survey was a two-stage stratified one with census villages in rural areas and Urban Frame Survey (UFS) blocks in the urban areas as the first stage units and households as second stage units. The sample villages were selected with probability proportional to population with replacement in the form of two independent interpenetrating sub-samples while the sample blocks were selected by equal probability without replacement also in the form of two independent interpenetrating sub-samples. After arranging all the households in a specified manner four sample households from each first stage unit were selected following circular systematic sampling.

3.1 Sampling frame : The sampling frame for the rural areas was the list of villages as per 1981 decennial census population except for Assam where 1971 census list of villages had been used. For the urban areas the list of Urban Frame Survey (UFS) blocks had been used as frames.

3.2 Survey period and sub-round formation : The survey started from July 1986 and continued upto June 1987. The entire survey period of one year was divided into four sub-rounds each of three months duration as follows :

July 1986 to September 1986 : sub-round 1

October 1986 to December 1986 : sub-round 2

January 1987 to March 1987 : sub-round 3

April 1987 to June 1987 : sub-round 4

Sd

The samples were equally distributed over the four sub-rounds in a manner so as to provide equally valid estimates for each of the related sub-round period. The averages based on the pooled data for all the sub-rounds taken together would account for seasonal variations and thus would be free from seasonal effects.

3.3 Estimation Procedure : The estimation procedure adopted in the 42nd round is based on weighted sum of sample values. Denoting by \hat{Y} , the unbiased estimate of Y (the state total of any variate), it is given by

$$\hat{Y} = \sum_s \frac{P_s}{n_s} \sum D_{si} \cdot \frac{H_{si}}{h_{si}} \sum_j y_{sij} \quad \text{---(i) for rural sector}$$

$$\text{and } \hat{Y} = \sum_s \frac{N_s}{n_s} \sum D_{si} \cdot \frac{H_{si}}{h_{si}} \sum_j y_{sij} \quad \text{---(ii) for urban sector}$$ where s, i and j stand for stratum, village/block and household respectively;

P_s , N_s and n_s denote the population, number of villages/blocks in the frame and number of villages/blocks in the s th stratum respectively; D_{si} , e_{si} and P_{si} denote the number of hamlet groups/sub-blocks formed, number of census villages contained in a large revenue village and the population for the i th sample village in the s th stratum respectively;

H_{si} and h_{si} stand for total number of households listed and number of sample households for the i th village/block in the s th stratum respectively; and finally y_{sij} is the observed value of the variate for the j th sample household in the i th village/block belonging to the s th stratum. Estimate of ratio of two characteristics is given by the ratio of the estimates of their aggregates.

Explanatory Notes on Tables

4.0 The tables presented in this report give i) the percentage distribution of persons over fractile groups by utilisation category of public distribution system and item ii) the percentage of quantity of purchase from public distribution system to total purchase by item and fractile group iii) the percentage of value of purchase from public distribution system to total purchase by item and fractile group and iv) the percentage distribution of persons not wholly dependent on public distribution system by reason for no purchase/part purchase of rice, wheat, sugar and keronene separately for rural and urban areas of 18 major states and all-India.

4.1 Fractile group : All the households belonging to a state had been arranged in the ascending order of household monthly per capita consumer expenditure and then the estimated number of households corresponding to each sample household have been cumulated to arrive at the total of estimated number of households (M). Since the basic fractile classification is at 10 per cent level, there will be 10 exclusive fractile groups, each accounting for approximately 10 per cent households (i.e. $M/10$ households). The fractile groups presented in this report are the percentile groups of 0-10, 10-20, 20-30, 30-40, 40-50, 50-60, 60-70, 70-80, 80-90, and 90-100.

4.2 Utilisation category of public distribution system : The utilisation of public distribution system has been categorised into three purchase codes. Purchase code 1 refers to the purchase only from the public distribution system, purchase code 2 refers to the purchase only from other sources and purchase code ②³ refers to the purchase partly from the public distribution system and partly from other sources.

Section Five

SUMMARY OF FINDINGS

5.0 It has already been stated in section one of this report that the object of the survey on social consumption conducted during 42nd round of NSS was to assess the benefits derived by various sections of society from public expenditure incurred by the government in order to cater to some of the basic needs of the population at large. Some essential commodities of daily use are sold to the public at controlled prices through some outlets like ^{ration} shops, fair price shops etc. which get their supplies from government or government undertakings - may be through intermediaries. This system of selling some specified items at fair and controlled prices through some authorised outlets is generally known as public distribution system. In this section some important results of the survey are discussed to provide an idea about the extent of availability and utilisation of public distribution system by the people inhabiting in rural and urban areas and also on various reasons for not their being wholly dependent on public distribution system.

5.1 In Table S1 are given the percentage of persons purchasing some selected items viz. rice, wheat, edible oil, sugar and kerosene either from public distribution system or from any other source. It is seen that the percentage of persons purchasing any such item is always more in urban than in rural except for kerosene in which case rural areas reported a little higher percentage than urban areas. Moreover, in general edible oil, sugar and kerosene are purchased by a greater number of persons both in rural and urban areas than rice and wheat. It is further evident from the results that while the percentage of persons purchasing edible oil, sugar and kerosene is quite high in respect of both the sectors of all the states, a significant variation is observed with regard to purchase of rice and wheat between states as also between sectors. Between these two items also the percentage of persons purchasing rice is more than those purchasing wheat both in rural and urban sectors of the states and all India. In the southern states of Andhra Pradesh, Karnataka, Kerala and Tamil Nadu from about 80 to 98 percent of persons were found to purchase rice in both the sectors against an all India percentage of 57 and 82 observed in rural and urban sectors respectively. While in the urban areas of the eastern states viz. Assam, Bihar, Meghalaya, Orissa and West Bengal the percentage of persons purchasing rice is found to be quite high, the corresponding percentage is comparatively lower in their rural areas. So far as purchase of wheat is concerned, a very low percentage of persons were reported in respect of the rural areas of Mizoram (1.82), Andhra Pradesh (4.40), Meghalaya (4.81), Orissa (4.89), Tamil Nadu (10.20), Punjab (10.60) and Tripura (11.38) as against 30.20 percent of persons reported at rural India. Similarly in the urban areas, Maharashtra recorded the highest percentage of 85.80 closely followed by Delhi (83) and Bihar (74.78). But some of the northern states reported lower percentage of persons purchasing wheat both in rural and urban sectors viz. Punjab (10.60, 28.80), Jammu & Kashmir (16.40, 23.11), Haryana (17.79, 27.49) and Himachal Pradesh (20.50, 29.44). Kerosene which is mainly used for cooking and lighting was purchased by most of the persons varying from 73 percent to 99 percent in rural and urban areas with comparatively lower percentage reported by Himachal Pradesh (44.12, 56.83), Haryana (62.37, 67.73) and Punjab (65.17, 63.62). It may be mentioned herethat the extent of electrified dwellings in respect of the rural and urban areas of these states was also reported to be very high ^{1/}.

5.2 Having studied the percentage of persons purchasing the selected commodities it is of interest to learn as to what extent these purchasers depend on the public distribution system as well as other sources either exclusively or partially. In Table S2 are given the percentage distribution of persons purchasing rice, wheat edible oil, sugar and kerosene over the different sources of purchase at all India level both for rural and urban areas. It is seen that extent of dependence on the public distribution system varies between different items of purchase as also between sectors. Among all these selected items exclusive dependence on p.d.s. is observed to be maximum in respect of kerosene and extent of such dependence is more in urban (56.20) than in rural (44.08) areas at all India level. Similarly, for edible oil exclusive dependence on p.d.s. is minimum in both the sectors: While about 5 percent of persons in rural areas depend only on p.d.s. for purchase of edible oil, it is only about 6 percent in urban areas. Moreover, in respect of all these items a greater percentage of urban persons do depend on p.d.s. either wholly or partially than their rural counterparts. While about 68 percent of rural persons purchase sugar from p.d.s. either totally or partially, the corresponding percentage in the urban sector is found to be around 76. It is also evident from the results that exclusive dependence on other sources of purchase is more in rural areas than in urban areas and among all these items such dependence is maximum in respect of edible oil with rural and urban percentage being about 83 and 73 respectively. Thus it may be stated that public distribution system is patronised to a greater extent in urban areas than in rural areas where the people in general have to depend more on other sources of purchase than on p.d.s.

5.3 It has already been stated in the preceding paras about how many persons in rural and urban areas are purchasing some selected commodities from any source and also how much of them are purchasing exclusively from p.d.s or exclusively from other sources or both. Now the persons who are not wholly dependent on p.d.s. consist of those who, during the last 30 days preceding the date of survey, did not purchase the item at all or purchased the item only from other sources or purchased it partly from other sources and partly from p.d.s. It is of interest to know the various reasons for their not purchasing a commodity from the p.ds. or purchasing it only partially or, in other words, to know why the people living in rural and urban areas stay away from p.d.s while purchasing a commodity. In Table S3 are given the percentage distribution of persons not wholly dependent on public distribution system over reasons for no purchase/part purchase for some selected items viz. rice, wheat, sugar and kerosene in the rural and urban sectors for all India. It is seen that the reasons for no purchase/part purchase from p.d.s vary between items as also between sectors. Percentage of persons who did not require to purchase rice, wheat and sugar from p.d.s. during the last 30 days preceding the day of enquiry was observed to be more in rural areas than in urban while in respect of kerosene such percentage is quite low in rural areas. Moreover, non-availability of these items in the p.d.s. is observed to be one of the main reasons for no purchase and/or part purchase and it is more pronounced in rural areas than in urban areas. While percentage of persons reporting non-availability of the different items varies from 8 to 30 percent in urban areas, the corresponding percentage in rural areas varies between 22 to 50. In particular, among all persons in rural areas who are not wholly dependent on p.d.s. for purchase of kerosene as high as 49.87 percent reported this item to be not available in the p.d.s whereas only 29.67 percent in urban areas attributed this reason for their being not wholly dependent on p.d.s. Though non-availability of the items had been reported by more people in rural areas than in urban, the picture is quite reverse in respect of these items being not available in sufficient quantities and this particular reason had been reported to a greater extent in urban areas than in rural areas. In particular, for sugar this reason was reported by 31 percent and 54 percent of the people in rural and urban areas respectively. It is also seen that unsatisfactory quality of the items had been cited by a greater proportion of persons in urban areas than in rural areas and this reason was observed to be more pronounced in respect of rice with the rural percentage being 5.30 as against 19.55 in urban areas. Lastly, the reason for not purchase from the p.d.s. due to absence of any credit facility was reported by a very few persons in both the sectors in respect of all these commodities although percentage of persons reporting this reason is relatively more in rural than in urban.

5.4 Having examined the extent of utilisation of public distribution system by the people, in general, inhabiting in rural and urban areas and also analysing the various reasons for not their being wholly dependent on p.d.s. it is of interest to study the prices of some selected commodities viz. rice, wheat, edible oil, and sugar which are purchased from the p.d.s. are given the price (Rs. 0.00) per unit of purchase of these items from public distribution system by sector for all India and selected states. The price has been derived as the ratio of total value of purchase from the public distribution system to the total quantity purchased from the public distribution system. It is seen that at all India level the price of these items are almost same in both the sectors with rural price being marginally lower than the urban price except in case of sugar for which the urban sector reported a little lower price than what was reported in rural sector. While the price of rice purchased from p.d.s. varied between Rs. 2 and Rs. 3 in respect of all the states, it was found to be ~~with~~ more than Rs. 3 in both the sectors of Haryana and Himachal Pradesh and in the urban sectors of Maharashtra and Orissa. Similarly for wheat, while the price at all India level was found to be centring around Rs. 2 in both the sectors, it varied between Rs. 1.75 and Rs. 2.25 in respect of most of the states except the urban sectors of Tripura and Assam where the price was reported to be little higher at Rs. 2.44 and Rs. 2.83 respectively. So far as edible oil, (which also includes Vanaspati,) is concerned, though the price at all India level was observed to be around Rs. 12 it varied between the states as also between sectors, presumably due to different types of edible oils being preferred in different areas. However, while the price of this item was reported to be comparatively low in both the sectors of Haryana and rural areas of Orissa, it was found to be high in urban Uttar Pradesh. Lastly, the price of sugar purchased from p.d.s. is found to vary between Rs. 4 and Rs. 5 in respect of both the sectors at all India level as also in the states except the rural sector of Punjab and both the sectors of Gujarat and Himachal Pradesh where the price was reported to be less than Rs. 4.
